Jaclyn Rossetti, Deputy Director of Communications

In a telephone discussion April 29, Ms Rossetti suggested I append the following explanation to my permit application.

The LaRouche PAC is a national, registered, non-partisan political action committee that seeks to engage citizens in public discussion on the issues of the day. For example, we are currently engaged in efforts to block fast track authorization of the TPP trade agreement, an issue that currently pits MA Sen. Warren in heated opposition to the President. A permit approval process that takes several weeks would guarantee that our voices are not heard on this important, and other similar issues. Our general practice is to have pairs of volunteers position themselves, along with a small folding table [approximately 2'x3'], on a public sidewalk with an adequate flow of pedestrian traffic. Signs attached to the table attract those with interest in our campaign. We take care not to obstruct anyone's passage, police the area at the end of our stay, and remove and take all of our materials with us.

Our intention is simply to get out a purely political message, and to engage our fellow citizens in a peaceful, respectful dialogue. We are determined to engage in this First Amendment protected activity, but are more than happy to comply with any reasonable procedures respecting time, safety and manner.

Thank You,
Kevin Pearl
