Council on Aging Director conveying a presentation regarding the Somerville Senior Community Survey, with the UMass Boston Center for Social and Demographic Research on Aging.

Director Speliotis introduced Ceara Somerville, a Senior Research Associate at UMass Boston's Center for Social and Demographic Research on Aging, to speak on the needs of older adults. Ms. Somerville spoke about the diversity of cultures in the city and explained that data was collected and analyzed from various sources to create a demographic profile of the city. She reviewed the key fundings and recommendations, e.g., the need to increase awareness of the Council on Aging (COA) and who it serves, expanding programs and services offered to reach a broader segment of residents, addressing short-term space needs and planning for long-term space needs. Ms. Somerville also spoke about aging in Somerville and the need to make it accessible for everyone, to continue efforts to support aging in place, to increase communication and facilitate new approaches to address financial security, to enhance direct support for caregivers, to promote education and awareness of caregiving experiences, to mobilize to combat social isolation, to expand strategies to empower older adults, and to have more awareness of the diversity of aging experiences.

Asked about space considerations, Director Speliotis said that the COA is renting space at the Dilboy Post to meet the demand. Councilor Strezo spoke about the concept of a coupon and/or warehouse club program as a means to assist with food insecurity and asked if there is an appetite to explore the creation of solutions to the next level. Director Speliotis replied that these are works in progress and are being tested to see what the needs and responses are. Councilor Strezo also spoke about the possibility of having community partners help by permitting residents to use their employee buses for transportation to grocery stores, etc.

Councilor Sait asked about access to the COA newsletter and how outreach is being expanded, and Director Speliotis explained the various approaches being taken. Councilor Sait also asked if space at SHS was being considered and the Director said it's one of many options, however, an inquiry has not been made yet due to the logistics of COA programming. Finally, Councilor Sait, noting that many of the things presented by Ms. Somerville are already being done by the city, asked what new information was learned from the report and Ms. Somerville replied that the financial insecurity information was a striking finding. Councilor Scott asked about expansion of the SHA and Ms. Somerville noted that no specific recommendation was offered. A detailed presentation will be made at the COA on May 23.

American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) Director conveying an update on the obligation and current status of ARPA funds.

Director Satin-Hernandez reviewed the ARPA timeline and noted that all funds must be expended by December 31, 2026. She reviewed the workflow for managing the funds from launch to measurement evaluations and said that 144 projects were undertaken and that more than 80% of the funds have been spent. Currently, staff are monitoring the spending down of the remaining projects, monitoring federal guidance, and collecting/evaluating data. The next steps to be taken will include the treasury compliance review, communication, and evaluation of project outcomes.

Councilor Wilson asked if the city is still confident that unspent funds won't be clawed back by the federal government and the Director stated that claw back was always expected, but the city did things by the rules and met all requirements available at the time. If, however, treasury changes the rules, then the city would have to deal with that. Councilor Wilson also inquired about Flex ARPA funds used for rental assistance and the Director explained that those funds have been moved to stable funding.

11. LATE ITEMS

11.1. Order
(ID # 25-0858)

By Councilor Burnley Jr., Councilor Davis, Councilor Wilson, Councilor Clingan and Councilor Sait

In support of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in schools.

Councilor Burnley introduced a late Resolution regarding CPR training by reading it into the record. President Pineda Neufeld then explained the process for having late items before the City Council and asked if any Councilors objected to allowing Councilor Burnley to continue and to sponsor a speaker. There were no objections. Councilor Burnley sponsored Nayan Sapers, a Harvard student, to address the Council on the matter. Nayan Sapers spoke about the importance of having this training taught in high schools and noted that MA is one of nine states in the country that does not have a mandate to do so, and asked that the City Council support passage of the proposed legislation mentioned in the Resolution.
