Councilor Strezo asked about the candidate's thoughts on what the city is currently doing well and what could be improved with regard to street design and mobility limitations, and the candidate replied that there have been issues with development and the closing of sidewalks, which can make it difficult or impossible for people in wheelchairs or with other mobility limitations to get around.

Councilor Wilson asked the candidate to explain the creation of the Somerville Olympics and the candidate's role in it, who replied that it was a way for Somerville residents with disabilities to participate in something similar to the Special Olympics, but who could not otherwise do so because the Special Olympics has competitive entry requirements.

Councilor Strezo asked the candidate what they think the city can do better regarding street design, and the candidate replied that the city could be more inclusive in its design process, and one way to do that is to understand the needs of the community from a data-driven approach.

Councilor Strezo asked about the candidate's views on connecting the Commission with other parents of students with disabilities to help them get the resources they need, who replied that the most important thing is for these families to have visibility and to not feel alone, and that connecting parents of children with autism would be a very important way the Commission could help alleviate that.

Councilor Wilson asked if the City Council should have a liaison with the Commission, and the candidate replied that not only should it, but that they believed it was a requirement, and that such a liaison would be very important for the Commission to bring concerns to the City Council, and vice versa.

Councilor Wilson asked about the candidate's view of the Commission's role, and the candidate replied that there needs to be more awareness about the Commission itself and what it can do for persons with disabilities, and that, for example, many people do not know how to obtain handicapped parking placards. Thus, the Commission's role should be increasing awareness in the community of the resources to which disabled persons have access.

Councilor Wilson asked about an easy thing the city can do to improve the lives of people with disabilities in Somerville, who replied that there should be more careful consideration of the locations of handicapped parking spaces.

12. Order
(ID # 22-1597)

By Councilor Burnley Jr. and Councilor Kelly

That the Director of Racial and Social Justice present an update to this Council on efforts to hire an Executive Director for the Human Rights Commission.

Legislative Liaison Carrillo stated that the focus of the department is on recruitment, but no additional information is available at this time. Chair Pineda Neufeld asked about the number of vacancies on the Commission, and Legislative Liaison Carrillo replied that there are twelve positions and that only one is currently filled.

Councilor Wilson stated that, to the extent the delay in hiring for this position is based on the development of a strategic plan, perhaps it is the lack of an Executive Director that is facilitating the lack of that plan.

Councilor Burnley expressed strong support for filling this position, and noted that one role this person will fill will be to begin the process of developing the civilian police review board recommended by the city's consultants in this Committee's most recent meeting.

Councilor Wilson and Chair Pineda Neufeld sponsored Christopher Spicer, who expressed strong support for hiring an Executive Director for the Somerville Human Rights Commission, noting numerous instances of human rights violations in Somerville and Massachusetts more generally in support.
