General Discussion

1. Chair Wilson introduced a resolution: That the FY 2023 Budget include a community center.

Councilor Gomez Mouakad introduced a motion to amend: That the FY 2023 Budget include a community center created with community input. This amendment was approved by a unanimous roll call vote.

There was discussion for whether to include specific actions such as a feasibility study.

Councilor Kelly said she does not want to include a feasibility study in this resolution because, in her experience, such studies cause items to stagnate.

Final resolution text: “That the FY 2023 Budget include a community center created with community input.”

2. Chair Wilson introduced a resolution: That the FY 2023 budget include an acquisition fund for affordable housing development opportunities.

Councilor Burnley introduced and then withdrew a motion to amend to include that a portion of the portfolio consist of housing with AMI below 50%.

There was discussion of whether to specifically call for the creation of an acquisition fund or to ask for more general opportunities for affordable housing. Councilor Strezo said that an acquisition fund is one of multiple mechanisms for affordable housing. Multiple councilors proposed and discussed amendments before voting on one by Councilor Strezo: “That the FY 2023 Budget create an affordable housing acquisition fund, and also pursue each of the affordable housing strategies discussed by the Finance Committee of March 30, 2022”. This amendment was accepted by roll call vote: 10 Yes and 1 No (Councilor Clingan)

After this item, the Council did not hold votes for friendly amendments, instead allowing the original mover to add the amendment text to the resolution to save time.

3. Chair Wilson introduced a resolution: That the FY 2023 Budget contain additional funding for a crisis response program.

Councilor Burnley introduced a friendly amendment that alternative crisis response be located in Health and Human Services. Chair Wilson was doubtful that the entire Council would be able to agree on a specific department that should house the crisis response program and suggested a more general resolution. Councilor Kelly brought attention to the text of item 213033, which had received wide support on the survey, that called for non-police programs. There was further discussion on what level of specificity councilors thought was best for this resolution and the definition of “non-police”. Councilor Burnley said that he felt a resolution without specificity would be harmful and as such, would have difficulty supporting a broad-strokes resolution.

Councilor Pineda Neufeld drew attention to the difference between proactive and reactive care, and said that she would like to make sure people can get care before, as well as during, crisis.

Councilor Kelly moved to amend the resolution to read: That the FY 2023 Budget include meaningful investment towards establishing non-police first responder programs for non-criminal emergencies. The amendment was accepted by unanimous roll call vote.

4. Councilor Kelly introduced a resolution: That the FY 2023 Budget allocate increased funding for creation of a Mental Health Unit within the Health and Human Services Department, as well as increased funding for other mental health professionals and services to respond to mental health crisis.

Councilor Clingan suggested allocating funding for mental health services without calling for the creation of a unit. Councilor Strezo said that she wanted a broader definition of mental health services in this item. Councilor Kelly said she thinks specificity is important. Councilor Gomez Mouakad said that they need flexibility - counselors and social workers where each are needed. She said that there is a need for social workers in the Latino community, and that they could be placed in immigrant services as well.

There was discussion on whether it would be best to collaborate with community partners or create in-house jobs on this item. Councilor Strezo said that there are already community partners doing this work. Councilor Pineda Neufeld said that not everyone will come to the city for help, either for a lack of trust or for other reasons, and that the city should acknowledge it is only part of the solution. Community partners often already have relationships with residents. Councilor Gomez Mouakad spoke of her conversations with a social worker, who thinks in-house positions are better.

Councilor Clingan mentioned that the Trauma Response Unit is only one person and talked about the possibility of expanding that unit.

Chair Wilson accepted a friendly amendment from Councilor McLaughlin to include weekends and holidays, and added evenings as well. There was a conversation about how much specificity should be included in the resolution - whether to specify a focus on issues such as accessibility. Councilor Gomez Mouakad said that adding specifics can be insulting to inspectors in that it gives suggestions on how to do their job; also, there are many types of buildings to be inspected, so the resolution text should be general.
