- That the Director of Health and Human Services provide an update on the communication efforts and rollout of the Warming Center, including the plan to inform Armory tenants, and the plan for security and client assistance.
- Taken together with item 24-0076. Dir. Nadkarni gave a presentation on security, maintenance and communication updates with the Armory, as well as the status of the master plan. Councilor Sait raised concerns with the timeline and with issues arising due to what feels like a lack of planning. Dir. Nadkarni said that the Law Office had finished their review and there will be information to share next week. Councilor Sait also asked about community participation in the meetings for the master plan, and this led to a conversation on factors that go into decision making. Councilor Mbah started a discussion about ideal locations for the warming center and which places were considered. Dir. Nadkarni emphasized that the warming center needs a heating system that can handle being on overnight.

Chair Strezo sponsored Stephanie Scherpf and Jess White, co-directors for Arts at the Armory, to share their perspectives. They spoke about how communication from the city has been lacking on multiple occasions, including in the establishment of the warming center and in a recent fumigation for bedbugs. Ms. White spoke about security concerns, and Ms. Scherpf stated that the Administration should not be leading this process due to having a vested interest and called for a survey to gather community input.
