Emily Hutchings, Senior Planner, presented the attached presentation and reviewed a correction to the original submission. Luc Shuster from the Planning Board asked why the proposed overlay is mid-rise (MR) 4 and not something higher given the opportunity. Emily Hitchings responded with neighboring areas being MR 4 and the goal is to put a pause on development for the next 18-months and allow staff to review and thoroughly read all proposals.

Chair McLaughlin opened the public hearing:

- Ethan Dussault- voicing support for this project.

- Jenn Harrington - believes this should have arts spaces in mind and spoke to steps they would like to see in place as the city moves forward with development.
- Joshua Michel - raised a question as to why MR 4 was chosen to block zoning and why MR 6 is not in place for larger and more effective projects.
- David Tatarakis - spoke to how Brickbottom is a great opportunity to increase housing stock given its location to the T side and agrees with earlier comments that this overlay should be MR 6.

- Daniel Coughlin - spoke in opposition to the IPOD and questions if it is being used as a tool to push current, private, landowners' outs.
